DRIVERS have been warned to take care on country roads - after a crash between a car and a tractor ended with both stuck in a hedge.

Photos shared by Barnstaple Fire Station show the aftermath of the accident with the car wedged up against the side of a tractor, standing on its bonnet with the rear of the vehicle pointing towards the sky.

When a crew from Barnstaple Fire Station arrived on the scene they discovered that an elderly male passenger was still inside the car. The driver was able to climb free with some assistance from emergency services.

The crash occurred at a narrow road near the village of Landkey.

The one saving grace, said firemen was that the car was "very well stabilised" between the bank and the tractor so the passenger managed to climb free of the vehicle with a little assistance from the emergency services.
